Rudy Giuliani series Rudolph William Louis (born May 28, 1944) is an American lawyer, businessman, public speaker, former mayor of New York City, and an informal adviser on cybersecurity to the White House.

Politically a Democrat, then an Independent in the 1970s, and a Republican since the 1980s, Giuliani was the United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York during the 1980s. Giuliani prosecuted pivotal cases against the American Mafia, and against corrupt corporate financiers.

During his first term as mayor of New York City, Giuliani hired a new police commissioner, William Bratton, who applied the broken windows theory of urban decay, which holds that minor disorders and violations create a permissive atmosphere that leads to further and more serious crimes that can threaten the safety of a city. This theory was widely credited for major improvements in the city's quality of life, and in lowering the rate of violent crime. While still Mayor, Giuliani ran for the Republican presidential nomination in 2008.

In 2002, Giuliani founded Giuliani Partners (security consulting), acquired and later sold Giuliani Capital (investment banking), and joined a Texas firm while opening a Manhattan office for the firm renamed Bracewell & Giuliani (legal services). Giuliani sought the Republican Party's presidential nomination in 2000; however, he withdrew from the race upon learning of his prostate cancer diagnosis. Giuliani was named Time magazine's Person of the Year for 2001.

In 2002, Giuliani founded Giuliani Partners (security consulting), acquired and later sold Giuliani Capital Advisors (investment banking), and joined a Texas firm while opening a Manhattan office for the firm renamed Bracewell & Giuliani (legal services). Giuliani sought the Republican Party's 2008 presidential nomination, but was widely credited for major improvements in the urban decay during the 1980s. Giuliani was considered a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 2012.

On January 12, 2017, then President-elect Trump named Giuliani his informal cyber security adviser.
In the mid-70s the marriage was in trouble and

Peruggi died in 1975 they agreed to a trial separation not accompany him to Washington when he accepted the Attorney General's Office job in the

By March 2007, The New York Times and the Daily News reported that Giuliani had become estranged from both his son Andrew and his daughter Caroline said his relationship with his children was better than ever, and was spotted eating and playing golf with Andrew.

See also

Political positions of Rudy Giuliani
Electoral history of Rudy Giuliani
Timeline of New York City, 1990s–2000s

References

Elisabeth Bumiller (May 20, 2000). "The Mayor's decision: The overview; cancer is concern". New York Times
Giuliani says decision on governor's race unlikely before summer". CNN. January 13, 2009.
Juliet Eilperin (February 8, 2012). "Rudy Giuliani doesn’t regret sitting out 2012 race". Washington Post
Raceforcityhall
Further reading

External links

- Campaign finance reports and data at the Federal Election Commission
- Campaign contributions at OpenSecrets.org
- Issue positions and quotes at On The Issues
- Appearances on C-SPAN
- Profile at SourceWatch
- Vote 2008: Rudy Giuliani, NewsHour with Jim Lehrer
- Genealogy of Rudy Giuliani
- Giuliani Partners at Stockpikr